

AMES PLAYS RINGS AROUND MISSOURI; SCORE, 16 TO 0

Speedy and Tricky Iowans Bewilder Tigers, Who Are Unable to Stop Even the Ancient "Criss-Cross."

WEAKNESS IN DEFENSE AND PUNTING MADE MANIFEST

Frequent Fumbling is Chief Cause of Merited Defeat.

The Lambert brothers and nine other speedy students from Ames University bewildered and defeated Missouri Saturday afternoon, scoring 16 to 0. The Iowans gave as pretty an exhibition of football as has been seen on Rollins Field this season, and merited their victory.

Evenly matched as to weight, and with practically every Tiger star on the gridiron, Missouri "rooters" had no excuse to offer when the game was done. The Iowans were faster, trickier, fifty per cent stronger on punting and superior in offense.

Ames in Perfect Trim.
An ideal football day, except for a brisk wind, filled the bleachers on each side of the gridiron with spectators, many of whom considered victory a foregone conclusion. But when the Ames players in their scarlet jerseys spread across the field for the kickoff, they made a beautiful mosaic, unpleasant to Missouri eyes. Every man looked in the pink of condition.

Three times Ames carried the pigskin over the Tigers' goal line, but once only did the mighty "Si" Lambert succeed in kicking goal.

Alexander, Driver, Gilchrist, Miller and Ristine played well for the Tigers. Miller was great on breaking up interference, recovering fumbles and tackling; Gilchrist was the ground gainer for the Tigers. Ristine recovered many fumbles.

Lambert's Great Punts.
E. Lambert frequently booted the ball sixty yards, and it was this that prevented the Tigers from scoring. Only once did a Tiger get through the line on an attempt to block those kicks, and then Lambert calmly stepped to one side and booted the ball sixty yards.

The Tigers were frequently within striking distance of Ames' goal, but either fumbled the ball or were held for downs.

The first touchdown was made after seven minutes of play. Deatherage fumbled a punt on the Tigers' twenty-yard line, Nelson recovering it for Ames. G. Lambert advanced the ball ten yards, and E. Lambert smashed through the line for a touchdown.

This was all the scoring in the first half. The Tigers kept the ball in Ames' territory until the whistle blew, but whenever the "Cyclones" goal was in danger Lambert put the ball back into the center of the field.

Score on Fumble.
Ames' second score came after fifteen minutes of play in the second half. On a forward pass Williams fumbled the ball to Ames on Missouri's forty-eight yard line. Knox took the ball on a fake forward pass and made a spectacular run of forty-eight yards for the touchdown, his interference being perfect. F. Lambert failed to kick the goal.

The third touchdown was also made as the result of a fumble, on the Tigers' two-yard line, Law recovering the ball for Ames. The Tigers braced and the Aggies failed to gain through the line, but the ancient criss-cross play worked and E. Lambert carried the ball over for the touchdown.

Ames used the open style of play altogether, with perfect interference. The Tigers used mass play and open play, but in the latter were greatly inferior to the Iowans. The Tigers were glaringly weak on the defense. Their style of offense was good, but they were slow.

DETAILED STORY OF GAME REVEALS TIGERS' WEAKNESS

Missouri won the toss and chose to defend the west goal, having the wind at its back. E. Lambert kicked off for Ames. Driver returned the ball eight yards from the ten-yard line. Anderson went through the line for two yards. Black in running around the end fumbled.

SOPRANO WITH SYMPHONY CLUB

MISS MARY FAY SHERWOOD.

MISS SHERWOOD SYMPHONY STAR

Soprano Soloist Delights Audience at the University.

Miss Mary Fay Sherwood, in an accordion-pleated semi-Empire silk gown, and in excellent voice, was the chief delight of the audience which heard the International Symphony Club Friday evening in the first number of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, given in the auditorium of the University of Missouri.

Miss Sherwood is the soloist with the club. She was heard in two double numbers, and was repeatedly encored, her colorful and pure soprano voice winning instant favor. Her manner in "Comin' Through the Rye," which she sang as an encore, perhaps lacked animation, but in the onomatopoeic swallow song, her voice, soaring and trilling, gave a vocal representation of the flight of a bird possible only through finished technique. She sings in four languages, and was especially pleasing in Ardit's "Parla." Her voice is not of operatic caliber, but her fine phrasing and delicate tonal effects were delightful.

Thanks "Reuben!"
The program altogether was so satisfactory that all who had the good fortune to hear it gave thanks to M. H. ("Reuben") Pemberton, who agreed to finance the lecture course after it had been abandoned, and made possible the appearance here of the club. Many who heard the concert agreed that it alone was well worth the price of the season lecture ticket.

The first number of the evening, Suppe's plaintive and exquisite "Poet and Peasant," called forth the full orchestral strength of the club. Nicokolia Sokoloff, the violin soloist, and Mr. Heindl, cellist, gave selections especially fitted to display their mastery over their instruments, and both were heartily encored. Mr. Scheers, the flute soloist, accomplished the difficult feat of holding an audience's attention through a "heavy" selection of unusual length. The program closed with a spirited interpretation of Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasia," and the audience departed with evident regret that its musical treat was at an end.

"FUMBLES LOST GAME," MONILAW; "CONDITION," SAYS WILLIAMSON

WHEN asked his opinion as to the causes for the Tigers' defeat, Coach Monilaw said: "If the Tigers had not fumbled the ball in the first few minutes of play when they were close to the Ames' goal they would have scored, and then would have played the Ames' bunch off their feet. As it was the effect of that touchdown was to Ames' advantage. The Tigers were slow in getting into action when playing on the defensive. The style of the Tigers' defense was especially planned to block the open play used by Ames, but the men did not start fast enough. The Tigers were in as good condition as the Ames men and were well matched with them in weight."

Coach Williamson of Ames University said: "The Tigers' weakest point in my opinion is their fumbling. They are also weak on defense, being slow in getting started. I think that my men were in much better condition than the Missouri boys. It was given out in the score book that the Ames team weighed about the same as the Missouri team, but as a matter of fact our team averages about 165 pounds, and probably is ten pounds lighter to the man."

MOBERLY YOUTHS ATTACK STUDENTS

One University of Missouri Man Arrested—One Knocked Down.

MOBERLY, Mo., Nov. 2.—Some University students became involved in a fight in Moberly Saturday night, and a student by the name of Owen was arrested.

The students were singing "Old Missouri" and other college songs and a number of Moberly youths attacked them when they refused to desist. They knocked one student down. The police, who were apparently friendly to the Moberly boys, arrested Owen, and warned the other students to stay away from Moberly.

The trouble began when the students ran a buggy into the street. They were told to replace the buggy, which they did. The arrests were made afterward.

JAPANESE HERE HONOR EMPEROR

While Americans Vote, They Will Celebrate Birthday of Mutsuhito.

IMPERIAL RESCRIPT RECEIVED

Moral Code is Publicly Read Wherever Sons of Nippon Gather.

Tomorrow, when the Americans will cast their votes for President for the next four years, the Japanese students of the University will celebrate the fifty-sixth birthday anniversary of Mutsuhito, the 121st Emperor of Japan, a descendant of the Jimmu dynasty, a family which has ruled Japan for the last 2,568 years.

Aside from the military reviews, official receptions, banquets and other public entertainments and amusements common to national holidays of other nations, the Japanese have adopted a custom which has been followed throughout Japan and in foreign cities where Japanese gather to honor their present emperor, during whose reign the island empire has become a world power.

This custom is the public reading of His Imperial Rescript on Education, a moral code which has been adopted by many public schools in America and Europe where religion is excluded from the course of instruction.

The rescript was first read before the Japanese Parliament in 1890 when the Japanese began to have a representative legislature. Through the courtesy of Mr. Matsuhara, Imperial Japanese Consul at Chicago, a copy of the revised translation of the rescript recently approved by the Japanese government has been received here.

Text of the Rescript.

It reads as follows:

"Know ye, our subjects: 'Our Imperial Ancestors have founded our Empire on a basis broad and everlasting and have deeply and firmly implanted virtue; Our subjects ever united in loyalty and filial piety have from generation to generation illustrated the beauty thereof. This is the glory of the fundamental character of Our Empire, and herein also lies the source of our education. Ye, Our subjects, be filial to your parents, affectionate to your brothers and sisters; as husbands and wives be harmonious; as friends true; bear yourselves in modesty and moderation; extend your benevolence to all; pursue learning and cultivate arts, and thereby develop intellectual faculties and perfect moral powers; furthermore advance public good and promote common interests; always respect the constitution and observe the laws; should emergency arise, offer yourselves courageously to the State; and thus guard and maintain the prosperity of Our Imperial Throne coeval with heaven and earth. So shall ye not only be Our good and faithful subjects, but render illustrious the best traditions of your forefathers."

"The way here set forth is indeed the teaching bequeathed by Our Imperial Ancestors, to be observed alike by Their Descendants and the subjects, infallible for all ages and true in all places. It is Our wish to lay it in heart in all reverence, in common with you, Our subjects, that we may all thus attain to the same virtue."

MISSOURIAN WINS FIGHT FOR BETTER WABASH SERVICE

Vice-President Delano and General Manager Miller Visit Newspaper Office to Promise New Station.

TO IMPROVE ROLLING STOCK ON BRANCH IMMEDIATELY

Officials Say They Realize Columbia's Growing Importance.

Owing to publications in the University Missourian showing the unsanitary conditions of the Wabash station in Columbia, the cheap character of rolling stock on the Columbia branch, and the great profit the railroad reaps monthly from this, the richest section of track and the poorest in equipment, new rolling stock is to be put on at once, and a new station is to be built here.

F. J. Delano, vice-president of the railroad, and Henry Miller, general manager, called Saturday at the office of the University Missourian in Academic Hall and personally pledged themselves that these improvements mentioned would be made.

The University Missourian began its publications looking to better Wabash service Oct. 7, and has waged it, editorially and in its news columns ever since. The outcome is a triumph of newspaper publicity.

Mr. Delano and Mr. Miller came to Columbia Saturday morning on a tour of inspection, and were accompanied to the University Missourian office by R. B. Price, former owner of the branch.

Realize Columbia's Importance.

Both the railroad officials expressed themselves as impressed with the growing importance of Columbia as a commercial center.

"Columbia will be a town of 25,000 people within a few years," Mr. Delano observed, "and I am sure the University will have 5,000 students. The Wabash intends to be ready to take care of the future as well as the present business in Columbia, both freight and passenger. A new station and better terminal facilities are immediate needs, and they will be supplied at once."

Mr. Delano asked what the most pressing need here is, and when told it was the substitution of better coaches on the Columbia branch, he said:

Better Equipment Promised.

"A division official has reported to me that electrically lighted cars cannot be placed on the branch, but I do not see why this should be so. Better coaches will in any event be installed at once. The roadbed on the branch is in first-class condition."

Mr. Miller and Mr. Delano said a new station would be built, probably northeast of the present station, as soon as a site for it could be purchased. The yardage will be increased, and the present station probably will be utilized for handling freight.

"We appreciate the business in Columbia," Mr. Delano said, "and will prepare to handle it properly."

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS MAKE FREAK WAGERS ON ELECTION RESULT

Loser of One Must Push the Winner Around Campus in a Wheelbarrow.

"Billy" Hill, Engineering student and Republican, became interested in a heated argument with Duval Smith, "Academ" and Democrat.

"I'll bet you $5 that Taft will be our next President," shouted Hill.

"Who do you think I am? Rockefeller?" said "Val."

"All right, I'll tell you what I'll do," said Billy, the admirer of "Big Bill." "If Bryan is elected, I'll push you around the campus in a wheelbarrow during assembly hour, and if Taft is elected you must do the same for me."

The bet was clinched and everyone is invited to witness its execution Thursday.

One student has nearly forty oyster stew bets on Bryan.

A certain fraternity is equally divided in politics and it has been agreed that the side which loses must pay for a big dance.

If the student body of the University act queerly Wednesday, remember that freak bets are being paid.
